1 Policy Statement

This Privacy Policy sets out details of the information that Cranstoun and the team members responsible for your care may collect from you and how that information will be used. It is important that you understand our use of your data and your rights.

It provides you with a detailed overview of how we will manage your information, from the point at which it is gathered and onwards. It will give you all the details you need on how we use your information, and how we will comply with the law.

It sets out your rights in respect of your personal information and how to exercise them. You can, for example, seek access to your information, object to us using your information in particular ways and/or request rectification of any information which is inaccurate.

2 Charity Background

Cranstoun understands that your data privacy is important to you and that you care about how your information is used and when it is shared with others. We respect and value the privacy of everyone who uses our services. We will only collect and use information in ways that are useful to you and in a manner consistent with your rights and our obligations under the UK GDPR and Data Protection Act 2018.

This Policy applies to our use of any, and all, information collected by us about your use of our services.

If you do not accept and agree with this Privacy Policy and our use of your information this will affect the level of service and quality of the care we can provide to you, as processing your information is a necessary part of providing our services to you.

3 Information About Us

In this Privacy Policy, we use “we”, “us” or “our” to refer to Cranstoun who are making decisions about the use of your personal information. Depending on the service(s) you are using, this may be either:

- Full name, date of birth,
- Home address, telephone, mobile, email and emergency contact details
- Who referred you to our services?
- Details of your current and former physical and mental health
- Advice, information and treatment(s) we have provided you,
- Prescriptions or medical advice you have received,
- Details of any contact we have had with you directly via email, text, or telephone
- Details of any contact we have had with third parties regarding your care and treatment, which may include your GP, other services.

We will also agree with you in advance the methods by which we can contact you.

6 Special Category Information

Which may include;

- race; ethnic origin; politics; religion; trade union membership; genetics;
- health; sex life; or sexual orientation.

7 How Do We Use Your Information?

We may process your information for a number of different purposes however for each of these purposes we must have a legal justification for doing so.

The main reason you come to us is to provide you with advice and support through your journey, and so we have to use your personal information for that. We would be unable to offer our services without processing your information.

8 Legal grounds

To provide you with health care and related services we have legitimate interests in storing and processing your information.

9 Additional legal grounds for special categories of personal information

Condition (h) from Article 9(2) of the UK GDPR states that our processing of your information is necessary for the provision of health and/or social care or treatment, and so we need to use the special category information in order to provide appropriate health or social care services to you.

10 How and Where Do We Store Your Information?

Your Personal Information stored by our case management systems providers are on electronic databases on systems protected by anti-virus software, firewall and other security within a secure datacentres in the UK – this includes on-site security, CCTV and fire protection. All access to this information is via a secure connection to the case management system, and access is controlled by multiple authorised username and password logins to systems. This arrangement supports remote off-site working while still proving a high level of information security.

Regardless of the security measures that we take, it is important to remember that the transmission of information via the internet will never be completely secure and that you are advised to take suitable precautions when transmitting information to us via the internet.

11 How long do we keep your information?

In line with the NHS Records Management Code of Practice (2021) , we retain most personal information for eight years from the end of your journey with us. We may remove some non-healthcare related information sooner than this, should our need to process the information no longer exist.

12 Do We Share Your Information?

As part of our initial (and subsequent) contact with you, we will issue you with this Privacy Policy document and will explain the key elements of it, especially around information sharing. In most cases, we will only share any of your personal information with others with your explicit consent; in advance.

There are instances when we are legally obliged to share some of your information to meet our duty of care for yourself and others. Where any of your information is shared for such a purpose, we will take all reasonable steps to ensure that your information will be handled safely, securely, and in accordance with your rights, our obligations, and the obligations of the third party under the law. In these instances, we would only ever share the minimum amount of information required to fulfil our duty of care and would securely share this information to ensure it is protected from unauthorised access.

13 Your Rights Over Your Information

Under the UK GDPR, you have;

- the right to request access to, and deletion or correction of, your information, held by us;
- be informed of what information processing is taking place;
- the right to restrict processing;
- the right to information portability;
- object to the processing of your information.

If you wish to enforce any of the above rights or if you have any other questions about Our Site or this Privacy Policy, please contact us using the details below.

However, due to the nature of the information we store, about you and your care, we do have statutory duties that may require us to retain the information you supply under the NHS Code of Practice , which would impact on some of the above rights as these statutory duties may take precedence.

You also have the right to complain to a supervisory authority, which in the UK, would be the ICO, via <http://www.ico.org.uk>
